A Note From the Editor

Roast chicken at Bouchon Bistro

LAS VEGAS OFFERS so much diversity when it comes to dining options. Burgers to foie gras, oysters to lobster, steak to vegetarian cuisine and everything in between show up on the menus of the restaurants here. Even those seeking vegan and gluten-free options can find something catering to their needs. Thai, sushi, pizza, Indian and more cuisines show up on the menus. And when you want a little of everything, head to a buffet.

Narrowing down a restaurant choice can be overwhelming, even for those of us who live in Las Vegas. Never fear. Where has you covered. Explore the many cuisines of the city here in our menu guides, or browse through listings of restaurants separated by cuisine and property.

THE NEWEST RESTAURANTS

Las Vegas reveals some of the hottest new restaurants nationwide.

By Richard Lane

Ike's Vietnamese fish sauce chicken wings from Pok Pok Wing.

THE LAS VEGAS DINING SCENE is always in motion, hosting ambitious chefs in stunning venues, all jostling to entice you to their tables. But the final days of 2018 are proving to be something special, filled with a mad rush of new and innovative restaurants and culinary superstars creating unique and exciting experiences you will be sharing with friends, family and strangers for the whole of 2019.

Down a hidden, slim corridor adjoining companion restaurant Crush, the smells, sights and sounds of the old country come alive at Greek Sneek (MGM Grand, 702.891.3228), the new home of authentic Greek and Mediterranean flavors on the Strip. Created by the famed Morton Group, executive chef William DeMarco has curated an elevated menu of classics, including kebabs, feta-stuffed chicken and perennial favorite branzino, plus wood-fired pizzas, gyros, and naturally, some baklava for dessert. A meal to toast with a raised glass of Ouzo, or one of the hand-crafted Greek-inspired cocktails.

Club, Red Plate (The Cosmopolitan of Las Vegas, 702.698-7789) now welcomes sophisticated diners to an atmosphere of grace and charm. Executive chef Yip Cheung blends traditional preparations with contemporary presentations in a sumptuous setting. Roasted indulgences of chicken, suckling pig or Peking duck join delicate servings of dim sum, including the decadent caviar taro puff with quail egg, plusexotic live seafood selections and a hot pot option customized to each customer's taste. Tea lovers will also enjoy the hand-picked collection of rare and aromatic blends.

Only on the Las Vegas Strip would a heralded James Beard Award-winning restaurateur debut a full-service Italian eatery tucked inside a department store. Shop 'til you drop and then head to the third floor of Nordstrom at Fashion Show and be among the first to enjoy the relaxing setting and seasonally influenced menu of Jeannie's (Nordstrom, 702.784.1610.) Seattle chef Tom Douglas was inspired by his own smash-hit pizzeria, Serious Pie, and included a full bar open to shoppers and thirsty visitors alike. Repeat diners already rave about the gelato, toastie sandwiches and handcrafted dough pizzas.

A 24-hour casino coffee shop is a Las Vegas essential visit and the Strat Café & Wok (The Stratosphere, 702.380.7777) reboots the concept into the modern age, serving American classics from the griddle and Chinese cuisine straight out of the wok. The clean, bright and contemporary interior is adorned with special pieces created by local artists and the affordable menu is a feast of hearty favorites for breakfast, lunch and dinner that customers can mix and match with choices such as pan-fried noodles, or get spicy with a plate of kung pao chicken.

If the Best Friend (Park MGM, 702.730.7777) bar and retail store at Park MGM were the only assets Los Angeles star chef Roy Choi brought to Las Vegas, it would still be a sensation. But hidden behind the working storefront, Choi has built a personal spin on a Korean barbecue restaurant, designed to represent Koreatown in a capsule and serving taste sensations that open a portal to the streets of LA. A culinary mix-tape blending hip hop to bibimbop, right off the casino floor, the menu includes “remixed and remastered” greatest hits direct from the West Coast.

He helped push the Cleveland dining scene to national attention and now celebrity chef Michael Symon has created an off-Strip sequel to one of his biggest successes. Mabel’s BBQ (Palms, 702.942.7777) prepares its menu Cleveland-style, using the unique combination of Bertman’s Ballpark Mustard and Eastern European spices in the sauce, and quality meats and ribs smoked over fruitwood. A haven for whiskey and bourbons lovers, the rustic restaurant with a laid-back attitude also includes a roomy outdoor patio for fun and games and the world’s first “meateasy,” a secret, private dining space upgraded with table-side service.

The only non-California, U.S. expansion for the European-style café preferred by Hollywood celebrities, Urth Caffé (Wynn Las Vegas, 702.770.7000) offers a casual, airy respite from the bustling Strip on the upper level of the brand new Wynn Plaza shops. Sit close to the calming centerpiece water feature and enjoy healthy cuisine, vegan and gluten-free dishes for breakfast, brunch, lunch and dinner. Take some sweet treats back to your room, or save them for the trip home and sip the exclusive organic coffee and fine tea blends for an anytime pick-me-up.

A lush haven for glamorous and high-profile celebrity names, Catch (Aria, 702.590.5757) has taken the best of its Los Angeles and New York City predecessors and debuted a fine dining, Asian-influenced sushi, seafood and steak menu inside a showstopping and blooming oasis. Perfect for an intimate night out, or an upbeat after-hours rendezvous, customers pass through an elaborate entry garden into a visually surprising interior and encounter an equally inventive menu in the main dining room, already flooding social media with images of its whole “big fish” seafood plates and dramatic “big meat” servings of porterhouse, New Zealand rack of lamb or American wagyu tomahawks.

Block 16 Urban Food Hall (The Cosmopolitan of Las Vegas, 702.698.7000) has combined six of the coolest national concepts into one casual dining mecca on the resort’s second level. From New Orleans, District: Donuts. Sliders. Brew. dishes up doughnuts, specialty coffee and more. New York City tequila and mezcal bar Ghost Donkey is deliberately hidden from view, but worth hunting down. Nashville’s Hattie B’s Hot Chicken serves perfectly fried chicken and Southern sides, while Portland’s Lardo is a master of the pork sandwich. Fellow Oregonian Pok Pok Wing's Vietnamese fish sauce wings are a cult favorite with famous chefs. And representing Las Vegas, Tekka Bar: Handroll & Sake prepares its rolls made-to-order for hungry guests.

A Philadelphia institution, James Beard Award-winning chef Marc Vetri's first expansion to Las Vegas has earned him one of the best views in the city. Vetri Cucina (Palms, 702.944-5900) on the 56th floor showcases modern Italian cuisine at its finest and a menu suggested by regional specialties and rustic classics, plus a commitment to the highest quality ingredients, even to the extent of making its bread and pastas and bread on-site daily. Signature dishes that have made to move out west include sweet onion crepes, pastrami foie gras, and the Sicilian pistachio flan with milk chocolate gelato.

An iconic name finally makes its way to Las Vegas following 85-years, four generations and a history of unmistakable glamour and impeccable service. Elevated by a sophisticated elegant interior, Cipriani Las Vegas (Wynn Plaza, 702.770.7390) provides opportunity for diners to enjoy a classic Cipriani Bellini, a mainstay of Harry's Bar in Venice, prepared here in the authentic manner. Among the lunch and dinner menu choices, house favorites of pizza, soups and pasta, carpaccio alla Cipriani, baked tagliolini with ham, Chilean sea bass and homemade potato gnocchi. And don't forget the indulgent desserts, including the freshly whipped vanilla ice cream and vanilla meringue cake.

Shop, dine and learn at Eataly Las Vegas (Park MGM, 702.730.7777), a 40,000-square-foot citadel of culinary ideas and flavors, right on the Strip, where discerning food fans can purchase cured meats, cheeses and fresh seafood to take home, or back to their hotel rooms for impromptu picnics. The huge range of imported artisanal products also make great gifts. The all-day dine-in options include Neapolitan pizza, pastas, desserts and regional street food. Imported wines can be sampled before you buy and for a relaxing and informative break, watch the regularly scheduled cooking classes, inspired by the products on the Eataly shelves.

Upon arrival it immediately became one of the city's most stunning environments and the NoMad Restaurant (Park MGM, 702.730.6785) menu from chef Daniel Humm more than lives up to the exalted surroundings. Surrounded by a library of an estimated 20,000 books, an appropriate Las Vegas-style extravagance, continental and American classics intensified by Humm's intense skills include the NoMad roast chicken decadently enhanced with brioche, black truffle and foie gras, a rib-eye dry-aged for no less than 80 days and lobster thermidor prepared in a classic sauce of mustard, cream and brandy. Across the hallway, the leather and red velvet chairs and sofas of NoMad Bar (Park MGM, 833.706.6623) provide a casual alternative to the formal dining of Humm's main dining room and highlight the chef's eclectic take on simpler fare, including the the Humm dog, served bacon-wrapped with celery and black truffle mayo on a griddled brioche. Open for breakfast, lunch, dinner and late night, the glowing bar boasts a world-class cocktail and beverage program served in a refined atmosphere, gently swaying to the live soundtrack performed on the raised corner stage's Steinway piano.

Its original Cantonese, Sichuan and Beijing restaurant menu won over the most demanding of Hong Kong's culinary audiences, and Mott 32's (The Palazzo, 702.414.1000) fourth worldwide location is set to stun Las Vegas with a witty interior design by international star Joyce Wang, including a dining table made out of a vintage roulette wheel and the warm glow of neon signage. The vibrant bar ambiance and exceptional service have also been imported, joining many of Mott 32's lavishly praised dishes, such as applewood roasted Peking duck, Iberico pork and crispy triple cooked Wagyu beef short ribs.
